Mr. Geo. W. Gross and Mr. Jas. C. Cooper, both prominent in the work of the N. A. A. C. P., went to Boulder Tuesday evening, the 22nd, as principal speakers at a big celebration given by the newly organized Boulder branch. The meeting was held in the county court house and many official and civic representatives of the white race were present. The Boulder branch starts out with brilliant prospects. This promises to be a great year for the N. A. A. C. P. in Colorado, as a wonderful spirit of activity is manifest all over the state.

SPECIAL OFFICER W. O. STEAM KILLED.

On last Friday night, about 8:30 p. m., Special Officer Steam was shot and killed in the club rooms and dance hall at 2128 Arapahoe street. He was sitting at a table playing cards with three other men and Kell O'Neill walked into the room and said, "Steam, I have come to get you," and shot him twice. Officer Steam died instantly, and his body was taken at once to the morgue.

O'Neill escaped but was captured a day or two afterwards. Officer Steam was especially adapted for the work he did and was well thought of by the police department for his good work as an officer. He was buried from the Douglass Undertaking parlors Wednesday afternoon. John P. Morgan, who was with O'Neill at the time of the shooting, is also held for the murder.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Chapman announce the engagement of their foster daughter, Miss Minnie Caroline Sanderlin, to James Bondurant Russell. Miss Sanderlin is the daughter of the late Wm. E. and Hattie N. Sanderlin. She is one of Denver's own, being a great favorite among the younger set. Mr. Russell is one of the most efficient and popular young letter carriers in the government service. The wedding will take place late in April.

The Loeb Advertising Club was recently organized and Mr. F. D. Davis of the Glorify Manufacturing Company was elected president and G. Leonard White, connected with a local stock and bond house, as secretary.

The organization is named in honor of the eminent anthropologist and psychologist of the Rockefeller Research Institute, and will devote much attention to sales promotion by direct mail.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The work of the Y. M. C. A. is taking more definite shape each day, and is being placed upon a firmer basis. At the last meeting of the committee of management, the committee requested the board of directors, William E. Sweet president, to name the new committee for the present year. The board accordingly has announced the following: E. P. Blakemore, S. A. Bondurant, Jesse J. Brown, S. E. Cary, Walter R. Chapman, Alfred V. Gardner, A. C. Jackson, Edward Johnson, George C. King, Oglesvie L. Lawson, L. H. Lightner, Lemuel R. Owens, William E. Parks, A. A. Waller, Luther H. Walton. Mr. Lightner was reappointed chairman. The committee re-elected Mr. Parks recording secretary, and Mr. Bondurant treasurer. Mr. Townsend will also hereafter sit with the committee, and he and Secretary Bell will be members ex-officio of that body.

The joint public meeting of the Y. M. and the Y. W., which was held at the Central Baptist Church last Sunday afternoon, was a great success. A large number was present, the women, however, predominating. Notwithstanding the fact that the membership of the men is at least twice that of the women. Secretary Lute of the Central Association spoke on "Fundamental Rights of the Individual." It was a splendid address, and was well received by his hearers. The Rev. P. J. Price, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Dr. S. A. Stripling of the Scott M. E. Church, represented the ministry of the city.

The new Bible class, which meets on Thursday evenings, has started off well, and bids fair to grow very rapidly.

The meeting tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon will be held at the "Y" building. Dr. S. A. Stripling will be the speaker. His subject will be, "How the Ideas and Principles of Marcus Garvey of New York Can Be Used for the Elevation of the Race." In view of the recent notoriety of Mr. Garvey a large crowd will doubtless be present. The meeting will begin promptly at 4 o'clock, and will be open to everybody.

"AH, BOY! YEA, BHO!"

Heads, up, let's go to the bath house at Twentieth and Curtis Wednesdays; swimming from 5:30 p. m. to 8 p. m. Friday afternoons from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m., in the gym, basketball, volleyball, boxing, wrestling and group games for all. Don't let this great opportunity pass you by and later find you asleep at the switch. Come down and learn how to swim, one of the greatest assets in life; it is also your chance to learn America's greatest indoor game, basketball. Follow the crowd to where there will be something doing all the time. Speak to your parents about this and secure their permission to be on hand at all times. Mr. Townsend will have complete charge of all activities; enough said.

Washington's birthday was well spent with the boys in the building, a crowd being on hand all day and the tension shown in the different games was of a nature only exhibited by boys. We had planned to be in the open, but the weather man fooled us. A soccer and an indoor baseball game were also on the day's program.

Some of our boys attended the big and little brother's banquet Wednesday evening at the Adams hotel as guests of their big brothers. All went home feeling that the evening had been well spent.

The drum corp is making wonderful progress in the art of handling two sticks and hope to be out in the open displaying their art to all.

Mr. Townsend will speak at the Y. W. C. A. Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p. m.

The city-wide colored boys' work committee had a most gratifying meeting and luncheon at the Y. W. C. A. Tuesday evening. The new plans for our boys' work here in the city were presented by the secretary and were heartily endorsed by the committee. As soon as advertising matter can be printed our new plans will be before the entire public.

Brilliant Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Carter delightfully entertained at a formal dinner party last Saturday evening at their spacious and beautiful home, 2452 Lafayette street. Covers were laid for thirty-six, and never was a gay or more brilliant affair given in Denver. At exactly 9 o'clock the guests marched down the stairway to the strains of entrancing music and entered the dining room where the scene of incomparable radiance and beauty of color greeted them. The color scheme of yellow and green was carried out with impressive richness in every detail. Potted yellow tulips and fragrant yellow roses with a liberal back ground of fern and palms formed the chief decorations, which, with the soft light emanating from twelve candles, lent a charm of sweetness beyond power to describe. The charming hostess, in a rich lavender gown, trimmed with silver lace and bedecked with jewels, sat at one end of the table, while to her right sat Dr. T. E. McClain, the master of ceremonies. At the other end of the table the genial host reigned and on his right was Mrs. Belle Cotee in a gorgeous gown of blue silk with ornamental pearls. The dinner consisted of seven courses.

Dr. T. E. McClain has long since gained a reputation as toastmaster par-excellence, but on this occasion he outdid all previous efforts. The program for the occasion was graciously arranged by Mrs. Eliza Dishman and her admitted genius was never better displayed. The program was both novel and unique, portraying by musical romance the happy married life and constant advance of Mr. and Mrs. Carter from the days of their courtship down to the present. The distinctive features of the program were a vocal solo by Mrs. Dishman, "If Flowers Could Speak," and a piano rendition of "The Rosary" by Mrs. Earl W. Mann. Appropriate toasts to the host and hostess were offered by each of the guests. One outstanding feature of the dinner was the strikingly stunning gowns worn by the ladies. Mrs. Robt. Roy appeared most charming in a black pan-velvet, with sequel beads and an American beauty rose. She carried gracefully a red fan of huge ostrich feathers. Mrs. Mack Wright wore a Reseda blue, trimmed in pastel. Mrs. Frances Ratley, a heliotrope gown draped in black lace. Mrs. T. E. McClain, carnary georgette crepe with pascmentric trimming. Mrs. Earl Mann, a plum colored charmeuse with gold lace. Mrs. Mayne Burns, royal purple, tulle flounce and pearls. Mrs. Lizzie Anderson, white georgette, trimmed in maribou. Mrs. Eliza Dishman, white crepe-de-chine, panel of roses. Mrs. Ada Webster, black beaded net with steel cut beads. Mrs. Mary Gross, burnt orange satin, tulle flounce trimmed with jets. Mrs. Pitt, handsome pheasant blue with silver lace. Mrs. Mary Holmes, midnight blue gown with flowing net trimming and jewels. Mrs. Wm. Stewart, grey satin, trimmed in real lace and ornamental pearls. Mrs. Robt. Mitchell, pina cloth, hand embroidery lace, American beauty roses. Mrs. N. J. Skillum, pink georgette with gold lace and fringe. In addition to the husbands of each of the married ladies mentioned above, were Dr. E. T. Canty and Mr. A. Williams to represent the bachelor's club. Denver is noted far and wide for her lavish social functions and the Carter home has done much to sustain this by a series of stately affairs during the past year.

BUSINESS VS. PLEASURE

THERE is nothing which marks the progress of a people more than the character and success of its business men and women. There is nothing more helpful to a successful business man than clean, healthy, legitimate pleasure.

Business and pleasure are two great essentials in life's progress, but they do not go together. They do not seem to mix well. When business and pleasure run amuck, the business is completely knocked out and consequently the pleasure fades into gloom.

If a careful survey of all the business failures were taken we could safely say that the greater per cent of the failures could be traced to a reckless neglect of the business because of a wanton, evil desire for pleasure at the wrong time. Business is most a peculiar something.

It is like a fairy that must be often attended, petted and caressed or else it takes flight and is gone. Business brings pleasure, but we are not aware that pleasure brings business. Too often we are wont to disregard or defer important business engagements for a few passing moments of imaginary pleasure. Society is the greatest enemy to business that we can possibly name. Many business men get the false idea that to become a social hero or society leader among the fair sex, with frequent invitations to dine, dance or take a hand at cards means business fame, but he will soon become disillusioned when he finds his clients or patrons going to his competitor who can give them his time or keep his engagements with them. If only we could realize as a race how much really depends upon our attending strictly to business we would not be making so many lamentable excuses and complaints.

If we were as prompt and eager to keep a business engagement, no matter how small or insignificant, as we are to keep a pleasure engagement we would not be so far behind the other races who are succeeding in business.

We can positively say that there is not another race of people that desires more to patronize our Negro business and professional men, but become so exasperatingly disgusted at their lack of business promptitude and faithfulness in making good—in other words Keeping Their Word.

So much valuable, precious time, so many golden hours are actually flitted away by us when we really know better and are actually ashamed when we come to ourselves and see whither we have allowed ourselves to drift in search of a little pleasure. Let us realize that it is not pleasure that makes a race, but rather it is business that will elevate us in the eyes of the opposite race and cause the prejudice and hatred to fade away.

That a man may be fully rounded out and the better prepared to attend to business it is necessary for him to have some pleasure, but not to the total and absolute expense of his business. A business engagement should be paramount to any and all social engagements. We would hardly believe that a young man would throw up his job to attend a one night social stand, yet often has such a thing happened. Society has a tendency to make some men and women mere flippants, while business tends to make most men and women solid, dependable and worth while.

The sooner we realize that one of the main elements in the formation of character and real business success is to be a man of your word—a man who, when he makes an engagement can be depended upon to keep it, the sooner our race will rise to a higher level.

Ostrich's Feelings Hurt.

The finest ostrich feathers are the forty or more white ones which come off the wings. The birds seem to feel very keenly the disgrace of having their feathers plucked. They go about hanging their heads and showing chagrin very plainly. A more bedraggled forlorn-looking creature than the freshly plucked ostrich does not exist.

Give a Thought to the Living.

It is remarkable how few of us ever think that angels may be entertained unawares, that the misfit may be the one who is in time to immortalize his name and cast luster on the country of his birth or adoption. It may be all right to canonize the great when they are dead, but it is sad to think how few of them have been appreciated while alive.—Exchange.
