AFRO-AMERICAN CULLINGS

The migration of the Negro from the South to the North, East and West continues, reports a Chattanooga, Tenn., correspondent of the New York World. It is estimated now that more than 125,000 have gone to New York, Indiana, West Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Maryland, Illinois and Massachusetts. At the present rate, if the movement continues for six months, the South will have lost in a year 250,000 Negroes—half as many as migrated from the southern states in any two previous decades.

The census returns for 1910 show that the Negro migration from the old slave-owning section has kept up a steady stream to the North, but in no one year did the total number transferring their residences amount to more than a few hundred annually.

Of the 9,109,153 Negroes native to the South in 1910, 8,668,619 were still living there, while 440,534, or 4.8 per cent, were living outside of the South, 415,533 having migrated to the North and 25,000 to the West. The figures show that the present migration, which amounts to an exodus, has resulted in transferring to the North, East and West more than one-fourth as many as have gone to those sections in the entire time before.

The Negro population of Florida in 1910 was 308,603, or 41 per cent of the total population of the state. In Georgia it was 1,176,987, or 45.1 per cent of the total population; in Alabama, 908,282, or 42.5 per cent; Tennessee, 473,088, or 21.7 per cent, and North Carolina, 697,843, or 31.6 per cent.

In Ohio in 1910 there were 111,452 Negroes, or 2.3 per cent of the entire population; in West Virginia, 64,173, or 5.3 per cent; Pennsylvania, 193,916, or 2.5 per cent; New York, 134,191, or 1.5 per cent; Michigan, 17,115, or 0.6 per cent, and Connecticut, 15,174, or 1.4 per cent.

In the present movement 4 per cent of the colored population of Florida, 1 per cent of Georgia, 7 per cent of Alabama, 5 per cent of North Carolina have migrated.

Resolutions on vital questions facing the Negro race in the South were passed by the Negro Missionary and Educational convention at Houston, Texas. Following are the resolutions: "Whereas, there is much restlessness in the part of the colored people throughout the South that is resulting in an exodus of them to other regions for certain reasons, therefore

"Resolved, that we are pronounced in our views that the Negroes want to remain in the South. We love the South as our native section and want to encourage our people to remain here. We furnish honest labor in the fields, in the shops, in the homes of the white people whom we love and believe in, but we cannot control our people, we fear, unless we are protected from undue impositions and violence. The courts are in the hands of our white friends and to them we are ready to defer in all matters.

"Resolved, That we pledge ourselves as a convention to use every means to suppress vice and crime among our people and to help in bringing all law violators to justice.

"Resolved, That we respectfully ask that the law with regard to public travel which provides for facilities of travel be complied with, as it is now in many roads of the country the law is not complied with. We call the attention of the public to this important fact. We do not protest against the separation of the races, but do respect-

Philadelphia is doing something even better for the Negro than giving him the right to vote as he pleases—it is giving him a new and model home, Girard writes in the Philadelphia Ledger.

As there are about 90,000 Negroes in Philadelphia, the Negro home is a vital thing. Down in Dickinson street the other day were opened the first of fourteen model dwellings for one of the oldest of our hyphenates, the Afro-American.

The Whittier center acts before it preaches. Its method of helping the Negro is not to read beautiful essays to him about his destiny, but to teach him how to eat and sleep, how to rear his child in health, how to make a real home.

Hence the Whittier center has built this first block of apartments exclusively for the Negro. It is not a charity, because an apartment of three rooms with a bath costs $3.25 a week.

This is only the beginning, the egg from which, it is hoped, there will be hatched a great brood of similar groups of model homes.

fully ask that equal accommodation be given us.

"Resolved, That we are eager to place ourselves in position to aid in bringing to justice every violator of the law, but when mobs take the law in their own hands consternation is produced in our ranks and no man or woman feels secure.

"Resolved, That we invite the co-operation of the best white people, of whom there is a majority, in aiding us to procure the things asked above, as the question of the exodus of our people is a material one and we want to aid in the settlement of the confusion as far as we possibly can.

"Resolved, That we respectfully ask that a meeting of the representative men of both races be called at an early date and take steps looking to the settlement of the causes that are forcing so many thousands of our people to leave the South."

A report of the annual meeting of the Negro Organization Society of Virginia, held at Roanoke, shows what is accomplished today, under conditions, in old slave states. Accounts of community improvement were brought from many parts of Virginia. The report adds: "Everywhere that white people and the Negro neighbors have worked together to improve race relations there has come the twofold blessing, racial good will and community progress." This is what would be expected.

The New York Evening Post notes that as a "curious but undeniable fact" the American Negro is profiting by the war. The Post says: "As a result of the demand for labor in the North and the consequent heavy emigration from the South, there have been some remarkable appeals in the South for better treatment of the colored people, so that they will not be tempted to move away."

The fact that the American Federation of Labor decided to send agents into the South to organize the Negro laborers is a social fact worthy of attention. To anyone acquainted with the history of the Negro this is an astonishing proof of a change in his status.

The colored branch of the Y. W. C. A. at Indianapolis observed Thanksgiving Sunday with a special program at the building. The increased membership of the organization from 200 to 550 women and girls was emphasized as a special reason for thanksgiving at this time.

Due to the excellent work of the colored provisional branch, the Central association decided to form a permanent branch for the colored people. The first step was taken in this direction a few days ago, when the provisional committee of management was asked to select from their number six of the twelve members who will constitute the permanent committee of management. The persons chosen are Mrs. Minnie Whittaker, Mrs. J. T. V. Hill, Mrs. Frances B. Coston, Mrs. Emma Duval, Miss Pauline Batties and Miss Alice Kelley. The other six members will be chosen by the Central association. Under the new arrangement all business of the colored branch will be transacted at the Central association offices, with Mrs. John Hendricks of the Central association as chairman of the committee of management.

Philadelphia has 200,000 schoolchildren.

but it is a fact just the same, that poor housing and hygienic conditions in the crowded Negro quarters of Philadelphia exact a larger toll of human life than Germany's food restrictions levy upon the conquered Belgians.

The Whittier center's motto puts it this way: "A white man's chance for the Negro. More than that, the Negro has no right to ask; less than that the republic has no right to offer."
