RESCUED TWICE FROM WATER, ONCE FIRE, NEGRO WOMAN COMES TO LIFE IN MORGUE.

Pueblo, Colo., June 7.—Rescued twice from water and once from fire, pulled from the flood waters as dead and taken to a morgue and laid among corpses, Mary McAllister, Negro woman of Pueblo, is in a hospital recovering from the night of horror Friday.

T. C. McCarthy, undertaker, was preparing to embalm the body when he observed slight signs of life. With assistants he worked over her until she was revived.

With another Negro woman, unidentified, she was taken from the second story of her home in the flood district by two men in a boat. It capsize with the swift current, according to the story told to the Associated Press by J. T. McCorkle, Pueblo business man.

Though one arm is withered, the woman managed to grasp an electric wire and hung there until rescued by Joseph B. Roberts and Charles E. Wayland. Roberts is president of a land company and Wayland is secretary of the Fulton Ice Company.

The other woman was rescued from a tree top, but as the McAllister woman was being pulled into the light skiff it also capsize. The unidentified woman was drowned but Roberts and Wayland pulled the other to a roof. They remained there until flames from an adjoining lumber yard drove them back into the water and they were rescued a third time in a boat.

The struggles had exhausted the woman and she was believed dead and taken to a morgue. Her name was given out as one of the dead in the early lists, and through some oversight was not removed until today.

NEGRO FOUND GUILTY OF MURDERING GIRL.

Life Imprisonment Recommended for Boulder Porter Who Shot His Sweetheart to Death.

Boulder, Colo., June 8.—A verdict of murder in the first degree, with recommendation of life imprisonment, was returned by a jury in the District Court here today against Harry McReynolds, Negro porter. Formal sentence will not be pronounced until Friday by Judge Graham.

McReynolds, on May 9, shot his sweetheart, Avo Dirvin, an 18-year-old Prep school student after a quarrel. After the shooting he ran all the way to Denver, according to his own statement, and went into hiding at the home of friends.

The trial was followed by a crowd that packed the courtroom and the corridors of the building. McReynolds pleaded guilty, but the case had to be tried before a jury to determine the degree of murder.

He declared that he had not intended to kill her and was sorry for his act. McReynolds is 22 years of age.
